

My local K-Love station provides my family and me with wholesome, uplifting programming that is difficult to find on many of today's stations. As more stations become filled with obscenity and questionable banter and music lyrics, it is more important than ever to help provide an alternative--which is what K-Love does. Because of that, we have been financial supporters of this station for several years. I want to know that when my children turn on the radio, I don't need to worry about what they listen to--that is why K-Love is our station of choice most often.
